Instructions

Section I, Part A of this exam contains 55 multiple-choice questions. Fill in only the ovals for numbers 1 through 55 on your answer sheet.

Indicate all of your answers to the multiple-choice questions on the answer sheet. No credit will be given for anything written in this exam booklet, but you may use the booklet for notes or scratch work. After you have decided which of the suggested answers is best, completely fill in the corresponding oval on the answer sheet. Give only one answer to each question. If you change an answer, be sure that the previous mark is erased completely. Here is a sample question and answer.

Sample Question

Chicago is a
(A) state
(B) city
(C) country
(D) continent

Sample Answer

Use your time effectively, working as quickly as you can without losing accuracy. Do not spend too much time on any one question. Go on to other questions and come back to the ones you have not answered if you have time. It is not expected that everyone will know the answers to all the multiple-choice questions.

Your total score on the multiple-choice section is based only on the number of questions answered correctly. Points are not deducted for incorrect answers or unanswered questions.

Questions 4–6 refer to the passage below.

“Our constitution does not copy the laws of neighboring states; we are rather a pattern to others than imitators ourselves. Its administration favors the many instead of the few; this is why it is called a democracy. If we look to the laws, they afford equal justice to all in their private differences; if no social standing, advancement in public life falls to reputation for capacity, class considerations not being allowed to interfere with merit; nor again does poverty bar the way, if a man is able to serve the state, he is not hindered by the obscurity of his condition. The freedom which we enjoy in our government extends also to our ordinary life. There, far from exercising a jealous surveillance over each other, we do not feel called upon to be angry with our neighbor for doing what he likes, or even to indulge in those injurious looks which cannot fail to be offensive, although they inflict no positive penalty. But all this ease in our private relations does not make us lawless as citizens. Against this fear is our chief safeguard, teaching us to obey the magistrates and the laws, particularly such as regard the protection of the injured, whether they are actually on the statute book, or belong to that code which, although unwritten, yet cannot be broken without acknowledged disgrace.”

Thucydides, History of the Peloponnesian War, ca. 415 B.C.E.

4. According to the passage, which of the following is a characteristic of classical Greek democracy?

(A) The weighing of individual accomplishment above financial status

(B) The imitation of neighboring states’ laws and principles

(C) The ability of average people to overthrow leaders with whom they disagree

(D) The justice system’s protection of the injured only through explicitly written legal codes

5. During the time period in which this text was written, who was allowed to participate in the Greek democratic process?

(A) All adult men born within the geographic boundaries of the state

(B) All adult men and women born within the geographic boundaries of the state

(C) All adult men who were citizens of the state by birth

(D) All adult men and women who were citizens of the state by birth

6. Which of the following correctly describes one of the primary reasons that Greek culture was disseminated widely around the Mediterranean region during the time period represented by the passage?

(A) The geography of Greece contains many natural resources that facilitated a profitable mining industry.

(B) The geography of Greece contains numerous freshwater lakes that facilitated a successful fishing industry.

(C) The geography of Greece contains prominent river valleys that facilitated widespread agriculture.

(D) The geography of Greece contains many natural harbors that facilitated trade and commerce.

"After fighting three battles with the Romans, the Muslims conquered them. So when the chief men of the city saw these things, they went to Amr, and received a certificate of security for the city, that it might not be plundered. This kind of treaty which Muhammad, the chief of the Arabs, taught them, they called the Law; and he says with regard to it: "As for the province of Egypt and any city that agrees with its inhabitants to pay the land-tax to you and to submit to your authority, make a treaty with them, and do them no injury. But plunder and take as prisoners those that will not consent to this and resist you." For this reason the Muslims kept their hands off the province and its inhabitants, but destroyed the nation of the Romans, and their general who was named Marianus. And those of the Romans who escaped fled to Alexandria, and shut its gates upon the Arabs, and fortified themselves within the city."

"And in the year 360 of Diocletian [i.e. 644 C.E.], in the month of December, three years after Amr had taken possession of Memphis, the Muslims captured the city of Alexandria, and destroyed its walls, and burnt many churches with fire. And they burnt the church of Saint Mark, which was built by the sea, where his body was laid; and this was the place to which the father and patriarch, Peter the Martyr, went before his martyrdom, and blessed Saint Mark, and committed to him his reasonable flock, as he had received it. So they burnt this place and the monasteries around it...."

Sawirus ibn al-Muqaffa, History of the Patriarchs of the Coptic Church of Alexandria, ca. 1080 C.E.

7. The shaded portions of the map shown in Source 1 indicate which of the following?
   (A) The extent of the Roman Empire during its peak geographic reach
   (B) The extent of the Byzantine Empire during the years of the Crusades
   (C) The extent of the Arab conquest during the years during and after the life of Muhammad
   (D) The extent of Sassanid-controlled territory during Persia's peak geographic reach

8. The text in Source 2 reflects which of the following policies commonly employed by Muslim leaders in conquered lands?
   (A) The death penalty for those who refused to convert to Islam and submit to the authority of the conquerors
   (B) Taxation on those who refused to convert to Islam and submit to the authority of the conquerors
   (C) Forced exile for those who refused to convert to Islam and submit to the authority of the conquerors
   (D) No penalty for those who refused to convert to Islam and submit to the authority of the conquerors

9. Which of the following best characterizes the split between Sunni and Shia Muslims during the time period after the death of Muhammad?

(A) A disagreement about the rightful successor to Muhammad’s rule
(B) A disagreement about the best location for pilgrimage activities in Mecca
(C) A disagreement about the legal status of women within Islam
(D) A disagreement about the Muslim theological understanding of God

10. Which of the following is a major difference between early Christian and early Muslim beliefs?

(A) A belief in one god
(B) A belief in the divinity of Jesus
(C) A belief in proselytization
(D) A belief in the importance of charity
Questions 11–12 refer to the passage below.

"Upon their arrival they were honorably and graciously received by the grand Khan, in a full assembly of his principal officers. When they drew nigh to his person, they paid their respects by prostrating themselves on the floor. He immediately commanded them to rise, and to relate to him the circumstances of their travels, with all that had taken place in their negotiation with his holiness the pope. To their narrative, which they gave in the regular order of events, and delivered in perspicuous language, he listened with attentive silence. The letters and the presents from pope Gregory were then laid before him, and, upon hearing the former read, he bestowed much commendation on the fidelity, the zeal, and the diligence of his ambassadors; and receiving with due reverence the oil from the holy sepulchre, he gave directions that it should be preserved with religious care. Upon his observing Marco Polo, and inquiring who he was, Nicolo made answer, This is your servant, and my son; upon which the grand Khan replied, "He is welcome, and it pleases me much," and he caused him to be enrolled amongst his attendants of honor. And on account of their return he made a great feast and rejoicing; and as long as the said brothers and Marco remained in the court of the grand Khan, they were honored even above his own courtiers. Marco was held in high estimation and respect by all belonging to the court. He learnt in a short time and adopted the manners of the Tartars, and acquired a proficiency in four different languages, which he became qualified to read and write."

Marco Polo’s Travels, ca. 1300 C.E.

11. The encounter described in the account above illustrates which of the following?

(A) The economic dominance of the Ottoman Empire
(B) The influence of Middle Eastern religious beliefs on the peoples of South Asia
(C) The lack of cooperation among major political groups in the High Middle Ages
(D) Amiable cultural exchange between Europe and Asia

12. Which of the following best characterizes one way in which the Mongol Empire was very different from other major empires of the ancient and medieval world?

(A) The Mongols generally ignored or assimilated to the cultural identities of the people whom they conquered.
(B) The Mongols often took over territory without major destruction or bloodshed.
(C) The Mongols imposed their religious beliefs on the people whom they conquered.
(D) The Mongols had little interest in trading with their geographic neighbors.

"Are you a man? Then you should have an human heart. But have you indeed? What is your heart made of? Is there no such principle as compassion there? Do you never feel another's pain? Have you no sympathy? No sense of human woe? No pity for the miserable? When you saw the flowing eyes, the heaving breasts, the bleeding sides and tortured limbs of your fellow-creatures; were you a stone, or a brute? Did you look upon them with the eyes of a tiger? When you squeezed the agonizing creatures down in the ship, or when you threw their poor mangled remains into the sea, had you no relenting? Did not one tear drop from your eye, one sigh escape from your breast? Do you feel no relenting now? If you do not, you must go on, till the measure of your iniquities is full. Then will the great GOD deal with you, as you have dealt with them, and require all their blood at your hands."

"I repeat, that the superior races have a right because they have a duty. They have the duty to civilize the inferior races...In the history of earlier centuries these duties, gentlemen, have often been misunderstood; and certainly when the Spanish soldiers and explorers introduced slavery into Central America, they did not fulfill their duty as men of a higher race...But, in our time, I maintain that European nations acquit themselves with generosity, with grandeur, and with sincerity of this superior civilizing duty.

I say that French colonial policy, the policy of colonial expansion, the policy that has taken us under the Empire [the Second Empire, of Napoleon], to Saigon, to Indochina [Vietnam], that has led us to Tunisia, to Madagascar-I say that this policy of colonial expansion was inspired by...the fact that a navy such as ours cannot do without safe harbors, defenses, supply centers on the high seas...Are you unaware of this? Look at a map of the world."

Jules Ferry, On French Colonial Expansion, 1884

16. The boundary lines on the map (Source 1) reflect which of the following?

(A) Natural barriers such as rivers and mountain ranges
(B) Traditional tribal divisions within African societies
(C) Linguistic differences
(D) European economic and political concerns
17. The reference in Source 2 to “superior” and “inferior races” reflect which of the following attitudes?

(A) The idea that the colonization of Africa would be profitable for European nations
(B) The idea that European navies needed use of African ports
(C) The idea that African peoples would benefit from European cultural influence
(D) The idea that Africans and Europeans would have mutually beneficial cultural exchanges

18. Which of the following describes a negative short-term effect of the European colonization of Africa?

(A) Famines occurred when African farmers were forced to grow crops for export.
(B) Europeans built infrastructure such as roads and railways in the lands that they colonized.
(C) Missionaries from Europe built schools for native populations.
(D) Africa experienced a general improvement in medical care under European rule.
Questions 19–20 refer to the two sources below.

"The case of a broken thigh is analogous to that of the arm, but in particular; a fractured thigh is mostly deranged forwards and outwards, for the bone is naturally flattened on those sides. It is to be set by the hands, with ligatures, and even cords applied, the one above and the other below the fracture. When the fracture takes place at one end, if at the head of the thigh, the middle part of a thong wrapped round with wool, so that it may not cut the parts there, is to be applied to the perineum, and the ends of it brought up in the head and given to an assistant to hold, and applying a ligature below the fracture, we give the ends of it to another assistant to make extension. If it is fractured near the knee, we apply the ligature immediately above the fracture, and give the ends to an assistant, with which to make extension upwards; and while we put a ligature round the knee to secure it, and while the patient lies thus, with his leg extended, we arrange the fracture."

Paul of Aegina, Epitome: On the Fracture of the Thigh and Nose, late 7th century C.E.

"Medicine considers the human body as to the means by which it is cured and by which it is driven away from health. The knowledge of anything, since all things have causes, is not acquired or complete unless it is known by its causes. Therefore in medicine we ought to know the causes of sickness and health. And because health and sickness and their causes are sometimes manifest, and sometimes hidden and not to be comprehended except by the study of symptoms, we must also study the symptoms of health and disease. Now it is established in the sciences that no knowledge is acquired save through the study of its causes and beginnings, if it has had causes and beginnings; nor completed except by knowledge of its accidents and accompanying essentials."

Ibn Sina (Avicenna), On Medicine, ca. 1020 C.E.

19. The two passages on medicine illustrate which of the following cultural exchanges that occurred in the period 600–1450 C.E.?

(A) The influence of Mesoamerican science on Europeans through systems of trade and navigation
(B) The influence of Chinese science on Islamic civilizations through European immigration to Islamic lands
(C) The influence of Egyptian science on the Byzantines through European scholars
(D) The influence of Greek science on Europeans through Byzantine and Islamic scholars

20. Which of the following characterizes both of the passages?

(A) A reliance upon supernatural understandings of physical phenomena
(B) A reliance upon reason and rationalistic understandings of physical phenomena
(C) A reliance upon abstract philosophical understandings of physical phenomena
(D) A reliance upon astrological understandings of physical phenomena

Reconstruction of the Aztec Great Temple of Tenochtitlan

Source 2:

“This great city contains a large number of temples, or houses, for their idols, very handsome edifices, which are situated in the different districts and the suburbs; in the principal ones religious persons of each particular sect are constantly residing, for whose use, besides the houses containing the idols, there are other convenient habitations. All these persons dress in black, and never cut or comb their hair from the time they enter the priesthood until they leave it; and all the sons of the principal inhabitants, both nobles and respectable citizens, are placed in the temples and wear the same dress from the age of seven or eight years until they are taken out to be married; which occurs more frequently with the first-born who inherit estates than with the others. The priests are debarred from female society, nor is any woman permitted to enter the religious houses. They also abstain from eating certain kinds of food, more at some seasons of the year than others.

“Among these temples there is one which far surpasses all the rest, whose grandeur of architectural details no human tongue is able to describe; for within its precincts, surrounded by a lofty wall, there is room enough for a town of five hundred families. Around the interior of the enclosure there are handsome edifices, containing large halls and corridors, in which the religious persons attached to the temple reside. There are fully forty towers, which are lofty and well built, the largest of which has fifty steps leading to its main body, and is higher than the tower of the principal tower of the church at Seville. The stone and wood of which they are constructed are so well wrought in every part, that nothing could be better done, for the interior of the chapels containing the idols consists of curious imagery, wrought in stone, with plaster ceilings, and wood-work carved in relief, and painted with figures of monsters and other objects. All these towers are the burial places of the nobles, and every chapel in them is dedicated to a particular idol, to which they pay their devotions.”

Hernan Cortés, Second Letter to Charles V, ca. 1520

21. Which of the following was an Aztec practice that took place at temples, such as that depicted in Source 1, and highly disturbed the Spanish conquistadors?
   (A) Human sacrifice
   (B) Grain storage
   (C) Burial rites
   (D) Trade and commerce

22. Which of the following describes the primary motivation of the Spanish conquest of the Aztec empire?
   (A) A desire to convert native populations to European cultural practices
   (B) A desire to establish trade networks in South America
   (C) A desire to establish permanent agricultural lands
   (D) A desire to acquire gold and spices

23. The description of Tenochtitlan’s temples in Source 2 indicates that which of the following was true of Aztec society in the sixteenth century?
   (A) It was outward-focused and relied upon networks of ocean trade.
   (B) It was highly complex and contained large numbers of skilled artisans.
   (C) It was egalitarian in its treatment of women.
   (D) It had largely peaceful relations with neighboring civilizations.

24. Cortés’ numerous references to “idols” in Source 2 illustrates which of the following conflicts between the Spanish conquistadors and the peoples of the New World?
   (A) Spanish monotheism versus Aztec polytheism
   (B) Spanish capitalism versus Aztec communalism
   (C) Spanish authoritarianism versus Aztec ethnocentrism
   (D) Spanish hedonism versus Aztec intellectualism

25. Which of the following political eras in Japan best contextualizes the dramatic increase shown in the charts above?

(A) The Tokugawa Shogunate
(B) The Heian Era
(C) The Meiji Restoration
(D) The Showa Era

26. In addition to the increased industrialization shown in the charts above, which of the following occurred in Japan in the late nineteenth century?

(A) The increased aggression of Japan toward the United States
(B) The weakening of Japanese imperial traditions
(C) The decrease in cultural creativity
(D) The abolition of the samurai warrior class
27. Based on the charts and your knowledge of world history, how was industrialization in Japan different from industrialization in Europe?

(A) Japan was more interested in producing different industrial goods than were the Europeans.
(B) Japan accomplished in a few decades what had taken Europe more than a century.
(C) Japan's political leadership was fiercely opposed to the wealthy new class of industrialists, unlike the leadership in Europe.
(D) Japan did not need to import raw materials, unlike Europe.

28. Which of the following was an effect of Japanese industrial and military strength on its relationship with its neighbors in the time period shown in the tables?

(A) Japan defeated Russia in a war for control of Siberia.
(B) Japan defeated China in a war for control of Korea.
(C) Japan defeated France in a war for control of Indochina.
(D) Japan defeated Britain in a war for control over Burma.

29. Which of the following was a long-term effect of the rapid growth of Japanese shipbuilding capability illustrated in Source 2?

(A) Japan was able to develop a modern navy that could fight on equal footing with those of European nations and the United States.
(B) Japan was able to develop many new naval technologies that were unparalleled elsewhere in the world.
(C) Japan was able to successfully defend German territories in the Pacific during World War I.
(D) Japan was able to develop its civilian maritime interests as a means of demilitarization in the early twentieth century.
Questions 30–31 refer to the two sources below.

Source 1:

"In the days of a great struggle against a foreign enemy who has been endeavoring for three years to enslave our country, it pleased God to send Russia a further painful trial. Internal troubles threatened to have a fatal effect on the further progress of this obstinate war. The destinies of Russia, the honor of her heroic Army, the happiness of the people, and the whole future of our beloved country demand that the war should be conducted at all costs to a victorious end.

The cruel enemy is making his last efforts and the moment is near when our valiant Army, in concert with our glorious Allies, will finally overthrow the enemy. In these decisive days in the life of Russia we have thought that we owed to our people the close union and organization of all its forces for the realization of a rapid victory; for which reason, in agreement with the Imperial Duma, we have recognized that it is for the good of the country that we should abdicate the Crown of the Russian State and lay down the Supreme Power."

Tsar Nicholas II, Abdication, March 15, 1917

Source 2:

"History will not forgive revolutionaries for procrastinating when they could be victorious today (and they certainly will be victorious today), while they risk losing much tomorrow, in fact, the risk losing everything.

If we seize power today, we seize it not in opposition to the Soviets but on their behalf. The seizure of power is the business of the uprising; its political purpose will become clear after the seizure....

It would be an infinite crime on the part of the revolutionaries were they to let the chance slip, knowing that the salvation of the revolution, the offer of peace, the salvation of Petrograd, salvation from famine, the transfer of the land to the peasants depend upon them.

The government is tottering. It must be given the death-blow at all costs."

Vladimir Illyich Lenin, Call to Power, October 24, 1917

30. Czar Nicholas II’s declaration of abdication in Source 1 is best understood in light of which of the following?

(A) Economic prosperity that fostered dislike of the aristocracy
(B) Widespread dislike of Nicholas’ tolerance of political dissidents
(C) Large-scale military losses and resentment of the working classes
(D) Persecution of religious minorities

31. What was the principal philosophical underpinning of Lenin’s call to power in Source 2?

(A) Capitalism
(B) Mercantilism
(C) Fascism
(D) Marxism

34. Who were the primary groups traversing the Sahara Desert to reach West Africa along the trade routes shown on the map?
   (A) Islamic traders
   (B) European traders
   (C) Chinese traders
   (D) Mongol traders

35. What was one significant effect of the Indian Ocean trade shown on the east side of the map?
   (A) The emigration of large numbers of Africans to southern Asia
   (B) The development of the Swahili language
   (C) The conversion of most of the coastal parts of eastern Africa to Christianity
   (D) The importation of gold from Arabia

36. What is the main reason that there were no significant trade routes in the central portion of the map?
   (A) The hostility of local tribes discouraged outsiders from entering.
   (B) The central part of Africa has no significant resources.
   (C) Linguistic barriers made trade difficult.
   (D) The harshness of the terrain made travel practically impossible.

Questions 37–38 refer to the passage below.

“The Romanists have, with great adroitness, drawn three walls round themselves, with which they have hitherto protected themselves, so that no one could reform them, whereby all Christendom has fallen terribly.

Firstly, if pressed by the temporal power, they have affirmed and maintained that the temporal power has no jurisdiction over them, but, on the contrary, that the spiritual power is above the temporal.

Secondly, if it were proposed to admonish them with the Scriptures, they objected that no one may interpret the Scriptures but the Pope.

Thirdly, if they are threatened with a council, they pretend that no one may call a council but the Pope...

...The second wall is even more tottering and weak: that they alone pretend to be considered masters of the Scriptures; although they learn nothing of them all their life. They assume authority, and juggle before us with impudent words, saying that the Pope cannot err in matters of faith, whether he be evil or good, albeit they cannot prove it by a single letter. That is why the canon law contains so many heretical and unchristian, nay unnatural, laws; but of these we need not speak now. For whereas they imagine the Holy Ghost never leaves them, however unlearned and wicked they may be, they grow bold enough to decree whatever they like. But were this true, where were the need and use of the Holy Scriptures? Let us burn them, and content ourselves with the unlearned gentlemen at Rome, in whom the Holy Ghost dwells, who, however, can dwell in pious souls only. If I had not read it, I could never have believed that the devil should have put forth such follies at Rome and find a following.”

Martin Luther, Address to the Nobility of the German Nation, 1520

37. When the author of the passage above discusses the “second wall,” to what is he referring?

   (A) The differing views of Catholics and Reformers on the appropriate definition of “Holy Ghost”

   (B) The differing views of Catholics and Reformers on the appropriate use and interpretation of biblical texts

   (C) The differing views of Catholics and Reformers on the appropriate theological belief about the divinity of Jesus

   (D) The differing views of Catholics and Reformers on the appropriate method of baptism

38. How is the “temporal power” mentioned in the passage best understood contextually?

   (A) A clerical or ecclesiastical authority

   (B) A legal or scholarly authority

   (C) A state or secular authority

   (D) A business or economic authority
Questions 39–41 refer to the source below.

"We are not Europeans; we are not Indians; we are but a mixed species of aborigines and Spaniards. Americans by birth and Europeans by law, we find ourselves engaged in a dual conflict: we are disputing with the natives for titles of ownership, and at the same time we are struggling to maintain ourselves in the country that gave us birth against the opposition of the invaders. Thus our position is most extraordinary and complicated. But there is more. As our role has always been strictly passive and political existence nil, we find that our quest for liberty is now even more difficult of accomplishment; for we, having been placed in a state lower than slavery, had been robbed not only of our freedom but also of the right to exercise an active domestic tyranny... We have been ruled more by deceit than by force, and we have been degraded more by vice than by superstition. Slavery is the daughter of darkness: an ignorant people is a blind instrument of its own destruction. Ambition and intrigue abuses the credulity and experience of men lacking all political, economic, and civic knowledge; they adopt pure illusion as reality; they take license for liberty, treachery for patriotism, and vengeance for justice. If a people, perverted by their training, succeed in achieving their liberty, they will soon lose it, for it would be of no avail to endeavor to explain to them that happiness consists in the practice of virtue; that the rule of law is more powerful than the rule of tyrants, because, as the laws are more inflexible, every one should submit to their beneficial austerity; that proper morals, and not force, are the bases of law; and that to practice justice is to practice liberty."

Simón de Bolívar, Message to the Congress of Angostura, 1819

39. The passage is best understood in the context of which of the following political movements?

(A) The fight for workers’ rights in Central America
(B) The fight for independence in South America
(C) The fight for economic justice in the Caribbean

Questions 42–45 refer to the three passages below.

Source 1:

"You may well ask: "Why direct action? Why sit-ins, marches and so forth? Isn't negotiation a better path?" You are quite right in calling, for negotiation. Indeed, this is the very purpose of direct action. Nonviolent direct action seeks to create such a crisis and foster such a tension that a community which has constantly refused to negotiate is forced to confront the issue. It seeks so to dramatize the issue that it can no longer be ignored. My citing the creation of tension as part of the work of the nonviolent-resister may sound rather shocking. But I must confess that I am not afraid of the word "tension." I have earnestly opposed violent tension, but there is a type of constructive, nonviolent tension which is necessary for growth. Just as Socrates felt that it was necessary to create a tension in the mind so that individuals could rise from the bondage of myths and half-truths to the unfettered realm of creative analysis and objective appraisal, we must see the need for nonviolent gadflies to create the kind of tension in society that will help men rise from the dark depths of prejudice and racism to the majestic heights of understanding and brotherhood."

Martin Luther King, Jr., Letter from a Birmingham Jail, 1966

Source 2:

"We, men and women, who hereby constitute ourselves as the National Organization for Women, believe that the time has come for a new movement toward true equality for all women in America, and toward a fully equal partnership of the sexes, as part of the world-wide revolution of human rights now taking place within and beyond our national borders.

The purpose of NOW is to take action to bring women into full participation in the mainstream of American society now, exercising all the privileges and responsibilities thereof in truly equal partnership with men.

We believe the time has come to move beyond the abstract argument, discussion and symposia over the status and special nature of women which has raged in America in recent years; the time has come to confront, with concrete action, the conditions that now prevent women from enjoying the equality of opportunity and freedom of which is their right, as individual Americans, and as human beings."

Source 3:

"The long-term goal of Gay Liberation, which inevitably brings us into conflict with the institutionalized sexism of this society, is to rid society of the gender-role system which is at the root of our oppression. This can only be achieved by eliminating the social pressures on men and women to conform to narrowly defined gender roles. It is particularly important that children and young people be encouraged to develop their own talents and interests and to express their own individuality rather than act out stereotyped parts alien to their nature.

As we cannot carry out this revolutionary change alone, and as the abolition of gender roles is also a necessary condition of women's liberation, we will work to form a strategic alliance with the women's liberation movement, aiming to develop our ideas and our practice in close inter-relation. In order to build this alliance, the brothers in gay liberation will have to be prepared to sacrifice that degree of male chauvinism and male privilege that they still all possess."

42. The author of Source 1 endorses which of the following tactics as a means of achieving his aims?

(A) Violent overthrow of the government
(B) Nonviolent resistance
(C) Appeasement
(D) Legal action

43. Source 2 suggests that which of the following was true about the women’s movement in 1966?

(A) It had succeeded in achieving all of its goals.
(B) It was ready for more abstract discussions.
(C) It was not a movement supported by men.
(D) It had not achieved full equality for all segments of society.

44. According to the text, the authors of Source 3 see which of the following as an obstacle to achieving Gay Liberation?

(A) Rigid societal gender roles
(B) Conflicts with the women’s rights movement
(C) Societal privileging of some races over others
(D) Inequity in pay scales

45. Which of the following do both Source 1 and Source 2 explicitly emphasize?

(A) The need for non-violent resistance
(B) The need for practical steps alongside discussions
(C) The need for unity with other movements
(D) The need for new and strengthened legislation
Questions 46–48 refer to the passage below.

"Let a woman retire late to bed, but rise early to duties; let her nor dread tasks by day or by night. Let her not refuse to perform domestic duties whether easy or difficult. That which must be done, let her finish completely, tidily, and systematically, When a woman follows such rules as these, then she may be said to be industrious.

Let a woman be correct in manner and upright in character in order to serve her husband. Let her live in purity and quietness of spirit, and attend to her own affairs. Let her love not gossip and silly laughter. Let her cleanse and purify and arrange in order the wine and the food for the offerings to the ancestors. When a woman observes such principles as these, then she may be said to continue ancestral worship.

No woman who observes these three fundamentals of life has ever had a bad reputation or has fallen into disgrace. If a woman fail to observe them, how can her name be honored; how can she but bring disgrace upon herself?"

Ban Zhao, Lessons for a Woman, ca. 80 C.E.,

46. Which of the following is expressed as an expectation for women in ancient China, according to the passage?
   (A) That they obediently fulfill their obligations within the home
   (B) That they collaborate with their husbands on domestic tasks
   (C) That they pursue education in order to find meaningful employment
   (D) That they speak their minds boldly

47. Which theme in the passage was common in patriarchal ancient societies?
   (A) The importance of attending to the affairs of others
   (B) The importance of ancestor worship
   (C) The importance of systematically arranging wine
   (D) The importance of female purity

48. In what way were women’s lives in the period 600 B.C.E. to 600 C.E. generally more restricted than women’s lives had been globally before the advent of sedentary societies?
   (A) Women were increasingly thought of as primary earners for the family.
   (B) Women were increasingly responsible for the care of their children.
   (C) Women’s power increasingly fell within the private sphere.
   (D) Women’s power increasingly fell within the public sphere.

Questions 49–50 refer to the two sources below.

Source 1:

"We proclaim Him also by our senses on all sides, and we sanctify the noblest sense, which is that of sight. The image is a memorial, just what words are to a listening ear. What a book is to the literate, that an image is to the illiterate. The image speaks to the sight as words to the ear; it brings us understanding."

Source 2:

"To make our confession short, we keep unchanged all the ecclesiastical traditions handed down to us, whether in writing or verbally, one of which is the making of pictorial representations, agreeable to the history of the preaching of the Gospel, a tradition useful in many respects, but especially in this, that so the incarnation of the Word of God is shown forth as real and not merely fantastic, for these have mutual indications and without doubt have also mutual significations."

Decree of the Second Council of Nicaea, 787 C.E.

49. The late eighth-century religious debate in Byzantium that occasioned the writing of the passages is best understood in the context of which of the following?

(A) Disagreement about the true nature of divinity.
(B) Disagreement about the role of the priesthood.
(C) Disagreement about the appropriate use of religious iconography.
(D) Disagreement about the best form of ascetic practice.

50. Which of the following religious movements was ideologically opposed to the sentiments about the use of holy images reflected in the passages?

(A) Sunni Islam
(B) Buddhism
(C) Zoroastrianism
(D) Jainism

Questions 51–53 refer to the source below.

"Upon this a question arises: whether it be better to be loved than feared or feared than loved? It may be answered that one should wish to be both, but, because it is difficult to unite them in one person, it is much safer to be feared than loved, when, of the two, either must be dispensed with. Because this is to be asserted in general of men, that they are ungrateful, fickle, false, cowardly, covetous, and as long as you succeed they are yours entirely; they will offer you their blood, property, life, and children, as is said above, when the need is far distant; but when it approaches they turn against you. And that prince who, relying entirely on their promises, has neglected other precautions, is ruined; because friendships that are obtained by payments, and not by greatness or nobility of mind, may indeed be earned, but they are not secured, and in time of need cannot be relied upon; and men have less scruple in offending one who is beloved than one who is feared, for love is preserved by the link of obligation which, owing to the baseness of men, is broken at every opportunity for their advantage; but fear preserves you by a dread of punishment which never fails."

Nicolo Machiavelli, The Prince, ca. 1513 C.E.

51. Which of the following best characterizes the author’s attitude in the passage?
   (A) Cynicism about the loyalty of a ruler’s subjects
   (B) Optimism about the fair-mindedness of political leaders
   (C) Criticism of the religious establishment
   (D) Ambivalence about the future of his economic prospects

52. Machiavelli’s treatise is best understood in the context of which of the following?
   (A) A time of burgeoning economic prosperity among the lower classes of Italian society
   (B) A time of increasing religious devotion among the elite Italian scholars
   (C) A time of intense political conflict among warring Italian city-states and other factions
   (D) A time of collegial cooperation between scholars and ecclesiastical authorities in Italy

53. The political philosophy espoused in the text above is different from those of the medieval period in which of the following ways?
   (A) It accepted the notion that monarchs were justified in asserting their authority.
   (B) It was a pragmatic rather than an ethical or religious ideology.
   (C) It stressed the importance of looking back to the classical past.
   (D) It did not rely upon strong concepts of equality across class boundaries.

Questions 54–55 refer to the two passages below.

Source 1:

"It is impossible to demand that an impossible position should be cleared up by peaceful revision and at the same time constantly reject peaceful revision. It is also impossible to say that he who undertakes to carry out these revisions for himself transgresses a law, since the Versailles "Diktat" is not law to us. A signature was forced out of us with pistols at our head and with the threat of hunger for millions of people. And then this document, with our signature, obtained by force, was proclaimed as a solemn law."

Source 2:

“We shall not flag or fail. We shall go on to the end. We shall fight in France, we shall fight on the seas and the oceans, we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air, we shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be. We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender.”

Winston Churchill, speech before Parliament, June 4, 1940

54. What is the historical background for Adolf Hitler’s condemnation of the Treaty of Versailles mentioned in Source 1?
   (A) Hitler’s belief that Poland’s territorial borders should not be violated
   (B) A rising intolerance of ethnic and political minority groups
   (C) A widespread belief in Germany that it had been unfairly treated at the end of World War I
   (D) Hitler’s attempted collaboration with Italian leader Benito Mussolini

55. Winston Churchill’s speech in Source 2 is best understood in the context of which of the following?
   (A) British support for growing resistance movements in Eastern Europe
   (B) British trade deals with American manufacturers of military hardware
   (C) British appeasement of the Axis powers
   (D) British fears about a possible invasion attempt by Nazi Germany

2. Use your knowledge of world history to answer all parts of the question that follows.

Identify and explain THREE specific ways in which the Romans assimilated Greek culture during the period 100 B.C.E. to 600 C.E.
3. Use the photograph below and your knowledge of world history to answer all parts of the question that follows.

[Photograph of an astronaut on the moon]

a) Identify how the "space race" between the United States and the Soviet Union had its origins in the Cold War nuclear arms race.

b) Using TWO specific examples, explain how the end of communism changed the relationship between the United States and the former Soviet Union.
4. Use the passage below and your knowledge of world history to answer the question that follows.

“The greatest improvement in the productive powers of labor, and the greater part of the skill, dexterity, and judgment with which it is anywhere directed, or applied, seem to have been the effects of the division of labor....To take an example, therefore, the trade of the pin-maker; a workman not educated to this business, nor acquainted with the use of the machinery employed in it, could scarce, perhaps, with his utmost industry, make one pin in a day, and certainly could not make twenty. But in the way in which this business is now carried on, not only the whole work is a peculiar trade, but it is divided into a number of branches, of which the greater part are likewise peculiar trades. One man draws out the wire, another straightens it, a third cuts it, a fourth points it, a fifth grinds it at the top for receiving, the head; to make the head requires two or three distinct operations; to put it on is a peculiar business, to whiten the pins is another; it is even a trade by itself to put them into the paper; and the important business of making a pin is, in this manner, divided into about eighteen distinct operations, which, in some factories, are all performed by distinct hands, though in others the same man will sometimes perform two or three of them.”

Adam Smith, The Wealth of Nations, 1776

Identify and describe THREE specific historical examples from 1750 to the present day that illustrate the benefits of the division of labor as described in the text.

Instructions

The questions for Section II are printed in the Questions and Documents booklet. You may use that booklet to organize your answers and for scratch work, but you must write your answers in this Section II: Free Response booklet. No credit will be given for any work written in the Questions and Documents booklet.

The proctor will announce the beginning and end of the reading period. You are advised to spend the 15-minute period reading the question and planning your answer to Question 1, the document-based question. If you have time, you may also read Questions 2 and 3.

Section II of this exam requires answers in essay form. Write clearly and legibly. Circle the number of the question you are answering at the top of each page in this booklet. Begin each answer on a new page. Do not skip lines. Cross out any errors you make; crossed-out work will not be scored.

Manage your time carefully. The proctor will announce the suggested time for each part, but you may proceed freely from one part to the next. Go on to Question 2 or 3 if you finish Question 1 early. You may review your responses if you finish before the end of the exam is announced.

After the exam, you must apply the label that corresponds to the long-essay question you answered—Question 2 or 3. For example, if you answered Question 2, apply the label 2. Failure to do so may delay your score.

SECTION II

Total Time—1 hour, 30 minutes

Question 1 (Document-Based Question)

Suggested reading and writing time: 55 minutes

It is suggested that you spend 15 minutes reading the documents and 40 minutes writing your response.

Note: You may begin writing your response before the reading period is over.

Directions: Question 1 is based on the accompanying Documents 1–5. The documents have been edited for the purpose of this exercise.

In your response you should do the following.

- Thesis: Present a thesis that makes a historically defensible claim and responds to all parts of the question. The thesis must consist of one or more sentences located in one place, either in the introduction or the conclusion.

- Argument Development: Develop and support a cohesive argument that recognizes and accounts for historical complexity by explicitly illustrating relationships among historical evidence such as contradiction, corroboration, and/or qualification.

- Use of the Documents: Utilize the content of at least four of the documents to support the thesis or a relevant argument.

- Sourcing the Documents: Explain the significance of the author's point of view, author's purpose, historical context, and/or audience for at least three of the documents.

- Contextualization: Situate the argument by explaining the broader historical events, developments, or processes immediately relevant to the question.

- Outside Evidence: Provide an example or additional piece of specific evidence beyond those found in the documents to support or qualify the argument.

- Synthesis: Extend the argument by explaining the connections between the argument and ONE of the following.
  - A development in a different historical period, situation, era, or geographical area.
  - A course theme and/or approach to history that is not the focus of the essay (such as political, economic, social, cultural, or intellectual history).
  - A different discipline or field of inquiry (such as economics, government and politics, art history, or anthropology).
Question 1: Using the documents and your knowledge of world history, evaluate how governments and international organizations responded to the consequences of World War II after it ended in 1945.

Document 1

WE THE PEOPLES OF THE UNITED NATIONS DETERMINED

- to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind, and
- to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small, and
- to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and
- to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom,

AND FOR THESE ENDS

- to practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbours, and
- to unite our strength to maintain international peace and security, and
- to ensure, by the acceptance of principles and the institution of methods, that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest, and
- to employ international machinery for the promotion of economic and social advancement of all peoples,

HAVE RESOLVED TO COMBINE OUR EFFORTS TO ACCOMPLISH THESE AIMS

Accordingly, our respective Governments, through representatives assembled in the city of San Francisco, who have exhibited their full powers found to be in good and due form, have agreed to the present Charter of the United Nations and do hereby establish an international organization to be known as the United Nations.

We, the Japanese people, acting through our duly elected representatives in the National Diet, determined that we shall secure for ourselves and our posterity the fruits of peaceful cooperation with all nations and the blessings of liberty throughout this land, and resolved that never again shall we be visited with the horrors of war through the action of government, do proclaim that sovereign power resides with the people and do firmly establish this Constitution. Government is a sacred trust of the people, the authority for which is derived from the people, the powers of which are exercised by representatives of the people, and the benefits of which are enjoyed by the people. This is a universal principle of mankind upon which this Constitution is founded. We reject and revoke all constitutions, laws, ordinances, and rescripts in conflict herewith. We, the Japanese people, desire peace for all time and are deeply conscious of the high ideals controlling human relationship and we have determined to preserve our security and existence, trusting in the justice and faith of the peace-loving peoples of the world. We desire to occupy an honored place in an international society striving for the preservation of peace, and the banishment of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance for all time from the earth. We recognize that all peoples of the world have the right to live in peace, free from fear and want. We believe that no nation is responsible to itself alone, but that laws of political morality are universal; and that obedience to such laws is incumbent upon all nations who would sustain their own sovereignty and justify their sovereign relationship with other nations. We, the Japanese people, pledge our national honor to accomplish these high ideals and purposes with all our resources.

The French people hereby solemnly proclaim their dedication to the Rights of Man and the principle of national sovereignty as defined by the Declaration of 1789, reaffirmed and complemented by the Preamble to the 1946 Constitution.

By virtue of these principles and that of the free determination of peoples, the Republic offers to the Overseas Territories that express the will to adhere to them new institutions based on the common ideal of liberty, equality, and fraternity and conceived with a view to their democratic evolution.

Document 5

Source: Vietnamese Declaration of Independence, 1945.

...for more than eighty years, the French imperialists, abusing the standard of Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity, have violated our Fatherland and oppressed our fellow citizens. They have acted contrary to the ideals of humanity and justice. In the field of politics, they have deprived our people of every democratic liberty...

For these reasons, we, members of the Provisional Government, representing the whole Vietnamese people, declare that from now on we break off all relations of a colonial character with France; we repeal all the international obligations that France has so far subscribed to on behalf of Vietnam and we abolish all the special rights the French have unlawfully acquired in our Fatherland. The whole Vietnamese people, animated by a common purpose, are determined to fight to the bitter end against any attempt by the French colonialists to reconquer their country. We are convinced that the Allied nations, which at Tehran and San Francisco have acknowledged the principles of self-determination and equality of nations, will not refuse to acknowledge the independence of Vietnam. A people who have courageously opposed French domination for more than eight years, a people who have fought side by side with the Allies against the Fascists during these last years, such a people must be free and independent. For these reasons, we, members of the Provisional Government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, solemnly declare to the world that Vietnam has the right to be a free and independent country—and in fact is so already. The entire Vietnamese people are determined to mobilize all their physical and mental strength, to sacrifice their lives and property in order to safeguard their independence and liberty.
